

what's new from Portland Press in 2008?

NEW!

Bioscience Reports

Portland Press Limited is pleased to announce that it will publish Bioscience Reports on behalf of the Biochemical Society from the first 2008 issue.

Bioscience Reports provides researchers with recent advances across the whole breadth of the life sciences, publishing original articles and reviews on topics including biochemistry, molecular biology and cell biology.

Features at a glance:

- Immediate publications – papers published online in PDF format as soon as they are accepted
- Available online in advance of the print edition
- COUNTER Compliant usage statistics
- Use of PDFs in course packs, e-reserves and VLEs permitted
- Free customized searching and alerting facilities
- EESI-View – an innovative format facilitating reading onscreen
- Archival access to subscribing institutions
- Impact factor up in latest ISI data – now 1.71

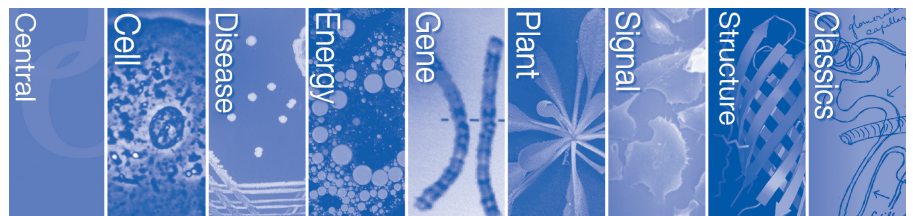

Current subscribers will benefit from no price increase in 2008. Bioscience Reports was previously published by Springer.

Biochemical Journal wins 2007 ALPSP/Charlesworth Award for Best Online Journal

After celebrating its Centenary in 2006, the Biochemical Journal was completely remastered for the digital age. This transformation has enabled the Biochemical Journal to beat off strong competition from bmj.com and the New England Journal of Medicine to win the first ALPSP/Charlesworth Award for Best Online Journal. The judges commended the Biochemical Journal as being both visually attractive and easy to use. They felt that the content is clearly displayed and information for authors, readers and librarians is easily available.

Portland Press journals continue to do well in the latest Impact Factor data

Biochemical Journal maintains an excellent position with an Impact Factor of 4.1 whilst the following journals increase:

- Biology of the Cell: Up to 4.3
- Clinical Science: Up to 3.26
- Biotechnology and Applied Biochemistry: Up to 1.9
- Essays in Biochemistry: Up to 4.88

Also new in 2008!

Cell Signalling Biology

Cell Signalling Biology has been updated to include coverage of additional cell types, cellular processes and diseases, plus animated schemes and the ability to download figures into Microsoft PowerPoint.

Biochemical Society Transactions

From 2008 a subscription to Biochemical Society Transactions will also include the prestigious Biochemical Society Annual Symposium – state-of-the-art reviews provided by world-class contributors.
